New York Stock Market

NEW YORK, August 30.—The clear ing up of the atmosphere of gloomy apprehension regarding the condition of the health of E. H. Harriman was manifest in financial circles well in advance of the opening of the market to-day. In fact, the fright which seized the stock community on Saturday might have been dissipated before the market closed, had the session extended to the afternoon hour usual market closed, had the session extended to the afternoon hour usual on week days.

As it was, the afternoon period on Saturday and the Sunday interval saw a steady growth of confidence in the belief that the seriousness of Mr. Harriman's condition had been exaggerated. The frankness of friends and of members of the family of the financier, in contrast with the mystery which had been wrapped about the subject since his return from Europe and his disappearance from public view, took the ground from under the feet of the alarmists and rumor-mongers. The consequence to the overextended short interest was rather serious, as the first prices quoted at the exchange this morning showed an instantaneous cancellation of a great part of the heavy losses suffered in the sharp decline of Saturday. The shorts themselves contributed to the showing by their scramble to secure stocks, warned by the tenor of the news from Arden and the preliminary advances, established in the London market before trading had been resumed in New York.

The Harriman stocks were naturally warned by the tenor of the news from Arden and the preliminary advances established in the London market before trading had been resumed in New York.

The Harriman stocks were naturally most affected, but the buoyant tone was common to the whole list.

Opening gains of 1 to more than 3 points over the closing prices of Saturday were general throughout. It was asserted that many of the orders executed at the opening were for small accounts of would-be investors, who had been watching for a sharp decline to come into the market. The sale of the first 12,000 shares of Union Pacific was at 200@200 7-8. This stock was a dominating influence on the market throughout the day. Its occasional reactions of profit-taking brought a pause in the general movement, and when its advance was renewed aggressively, the whole list responded, although in lesser degree. Union Pacific touched 202 3-4 and closed only 1-8 below that.

The strength of United States Steel completed the reassurance of speculative sentiment. The large part played by that stock as a sustaining force in last week's weak markets left an apprehension that there would be an after-distribution of stock accumulated in the course of the supporting operations. The fresh strength shown by steel and its late advance to within a point of top prices quieted this apprehension and left the advancing tendency without a single material obstacle. There was no feature in the news to explain the recovery in prices aside from the changed view of E. K. Harriman's physical condition.

Rains in the corn belt over Sunday corrected one of the few unfavorable factors pointed to last week. Some of the Eastern railroad officials advance the suggestion that two weeks of the rate of expansion of the freight movement in the last fortnight will see a shortage of cars on their lines. The seasonable tightening of the money rarket, which continues, and the unstable level to which prices had advanced are given their due influence in the reaction. With the covering of large lines of shorts, th apprehension that there would be an after-distribution of stock accumulated in the course of the supporting operations. The fresh strength shown by steel and its late advance to within a point of top prices quieted this apprehension and left the advancing tendency without a single material obstacle. There was no feature in the last formation of the prices aside from the changed view of E. H. Harriman's physical condition.

Rains in the corn belt over Sunday norrected one of the few unfavorable factors pointed to last week. Some of the Eastern railroad officials advance the suggestion that two weeks of the rate of expansion of the freight movement in the last fortnight will see a shortage of cars on their lines. The seasonable tightening of the money market, which continues, and the unstable level to which prices had advanced are given their due influence in the reaction. With the covering of large lines of shorts, the keenness of the later demand abated considerably, but the appearance of Mr. Harriman's dictated statement was coincident with a final raily to a strong closing.

Convertible and speculative bonds were strong, but the general tone was irregular; total sales, par value, $2, 800,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Total sales of stocks for the day amounted to 781,500 shares.

throughout the entire exision, although the surprisingly small decrease of 221,000 bushels in the visible supply of wheat in the United States helped to steady the market in the final hour. The fiberal movement of wheat in this country was again an important factor in this country was again an important factor in the situation. Rejuctance of the foreigners to purchase American wheat also had a depressing effect. The greatest soiling pressure was on the September delivery, and that opton manifested the greatest weakness.

Additional rains in lowa, Kansas and Nobraska during the last forty-eight hours brought out liberal sales of corn, which resulted in considerable weakness the greatest per part of the day. Leading elevator interests were among the panelpal sollers. Decidines of 1611c. In the price of cash grain helped a weaken the options. The May delivery closed at a gain of Me Me. but other options were unchanged to Me. lower.
